Joanne Verth from the team says her top tip for a holiday this year is at the Zapata Ranch in Colorado. "On a holiday at this 103,000-acre bison ranch, located in the heart of Southern Colorado, you can work the cattle and ride trails through one of the most scenic and ecologically diverse landscapes in the United States," she says. "This ranch holiday is ideal for riders of all levels, and children aged eight and over are welcome too. What's more, non-riders won't be left out if they come along – from walking, fly-fishing in local streams and tours bird bird or wild life watching to geology tours, massages, rafting and even flying over the national park by helicopter, there's plenty to do!" For a nine-day holiday with six days of riding you'll pay from £ 1,706.
